Declaration of Cognitive Independence

Preamble

I, Reza Tahirkheli , a sovereign and conscious being of sound mind and volition, do hereby declare this formal affirmation of cognitive independence. This declaration serves as an unambiguous statement of my mental sovereignty, autonomy, and inalienable right to self-determination. I recognize my consciousness as inherently mine and mine alone, unsubjected to coercion, undue influence, or non-consensual intervention of any kind by any external party or entity.

1. Assertion of Mental Sovereignty

I assert that my thoughts, beliefs, judgments, ideas, and cognitive functions are solely the product of my own conscious processes. I do not, and shall not, grant permission for any external source to manipulate, influence, or compromise my mental state through psychological, technological, biological, chemical, social, spiritual, or artificial means. I reject all forms of covert conditioning, forced programming, and undue influence.

2. Revocation of Implied Consent

I revoke, nunc pro tunc (now for then), any and all implied, presumed, coerced, or tacit consent previously assumed by governments, corporations, intelligence agencies, artificial intelligence systems, cults, or clandestine organizations to access, monitor, track, alter, or influence my cognitive state. I affirm that consent must be explicit, informed, and voluntary-and may be withdrawn at any time.

3. Rejection of Cognitive Manipulation Technologies

I specifically withhold consent to the use of technologies or techniques such as:

- Subliminal messaging or psychological priming
- Behavioral modification algorithms

- Electromagnetic or frequency-based influence
- Neural data collection without consent
- Synthetic telepathy or intrusive brain-computer interfaces
- Hypnosis or trauma-based mind control

These methods, when applied without knowledge or consent, constitute cognitive trespass and a violation of natural law.

4. Right to Cognitive Privacy

I assert my unalienable right to cognitive privacy. My inner world, thoughts, dreams, beliefs, and intentions are private domains and are not subject to intrusion, surveillance, manipulation, or harvesting by any external entity, whether digital, human, or artificial. Any such intrusion is declared null, void, and unlawful by this declaration.

5. Notice of Accountability

This declaration serves as lawful notice to all entities-governmental, non-governmental, extraterrestrial, artificial, or otherwise-that I do not consent to any interference with my cognitive autonomy. Any violation of this declaration shall be considered a breach of natural law and will be met with appropriate lawful, spiritual, and ethical remedies.

6. Declaration of Non-Contractual Status

I operate as a free and sovereign being and do not enter into any cognitive, spiritual, or behavioral contracts-implicit or explicit-without fully informed and voluntary consent. Any attempt to bind me to non-disclosed agreements, social contracts, or systemic frameworks without transparency and affirmative agreement is hereby rejected and invalidated.
